

NOW OFFERING:

Alaska MARICULTURE

Course on Sustainable
Ocean Farming

SPRING SEMESTER 2024
JANUARY 16- MAY 4

Tuesdays & Thursdays
4:30-6:00pm

In-person and online class
format available

No prerequisites required

FT123:

Intro to Alaska Mariculture

Learn about the principles, concepts and methods used in the production of shellfish, seaweeds and other mariculture species with an emphasis on techniques used by Alaskan producers.

This course will cover all aspects of aquatic farming including site selection, permitting, daily operations, management practices, and business planning and processing.

Contact Katie Sill for more information: ktsill@alaska.edu